'MESSAGE IN A BOTTLE'

Linda Pearl Scott, of New Orleans, scours the beach in Bay St. Louis with her grandson Tiger Tuesday. Last week, Linda and Tiger found a bottle on the beach with a message from Germany.

Beach outing becomes romantic adventure

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER

For centuries, the idea of a message in a bottle has conjured up images of romance and far away places. Many of us have dreamed of discovering our destiny washed up on a sandy shore, but few of us have had the pleasure of uncorking a watery treasure to find a message inside.

That's why when New Orleans resident Linda Pearl Scott saw the glint of glass on a stretch of sand near Buccaneer Park last week, she thought she was seeing things.

"I was taking pictures of my grandson, Tiger, when I spotted something on a little island of sand," said Scott. "It was a bottle with a ceramic cork and metal fastener, and at first I figured it was an advertisement for a restaurant or something."

Scott opened the bottle and discovered that the rubber seal was "all gummy," but the message inside was in perfect

TEXT OF THE MESSAGE:
Hello, this is a message in a bottle! We are from Germany and make two weeks visiting. Please write us, when you find the bottle.

Supers begin early battle with budget problems

Hancock County supervisors have gotten a head start on next year's fiscal budget, but that doesn't make the process any less grueling.

All five supervisors met last week around a table in a small room adjoining the secretarial offices. Comptroller Patty Greer-Haramons was present, too, as one-by-one county department heads and those who head up agencies getting some form of county funding came in to make their requests for next year. The sessions began Tuesday morning and lasted into the afternoon, with an hour and a half break so supervisors could lunch with the administrator and other officials of Hancock Medical Center. There were additional meetings Wednesday.

Normally, supervisors don't begin talking the budget until some time in July, but at the request of Board President Rocky Pullman, department and agency heads were asked to submit budget requests by June 1.

Pullman said he wanted to get the requests early, along with a report from Tax Assessor Jimmie Ladner on how raising the homestead exemption from $60,000 to $75,000 would affect

A Louisiana man is behind bars at the Hancock County Justice Facility after allegedly kidnapping and raping a Bay St. Louis woman.

William Daryl Kent Jr., 44, of Kenner, was captured by authorities in the northern part of the state Tuesday afternoon, according to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Kenny Hurt.

"On June 8," Hurt said, "we had a report of a carjacking, kidnapping, armed robbery and sexual battery on a 49-year-old female" in Bay St. Louis.

Justice Court Judge John Chevis postponed Hamby's trial on misdemeanor domestic violence charges Tuesday after a witness in the case did not show up for court due to an illness, and allowed the constable to be released on bond.

The year-long war is over between Mississippi fishermen and Louisiana hunters.

As the Louisiana Legislature drew near adjournment this week, Gov. Mike Foster signed a bill passed in the House of Representatives, which sets new and lower fees in both states.

The battle began in July of last year when the Louisiana Legislature raised its nonresident fishing fee to $110. Mississippi countered by raising nonresidents hunting fees to $425. An estimated 20,000 Mississippi residents fish in Louisiana and an estimated 14,000 from Louisiana hunt in Mississippi.

Sportsmen from both states sent e-mails and angry letters to their representatives and senators, leading legislatures in both states to formulate a compromise.

Louisiana Senator Craig Romero of Lafayette, who heads up the legislature's Wildlife and Fisheries Committee, came to Jackson when the Mississippi legislature was in session to drum out a compromise.

The Louisiana bill lowers Louisiana's annual nonresident saltwater fee from $110 to $90 and eliminates the $55 three-day freshwater and saltwater fishing license. It also creates a one-day license for $20 and a four-day license for $60.

Another measure creates a three-day, $30 nonresident fishing license for charter boat passengers fishing in Louisiana waters and lowers the fees paid by Mississippi charter boats.

Louisiana will now charge a $1,000 fee for vessels carrying up to six skiffs and $2,000 for those carrying more than six skiffs. In addition, there will be a $50 decal fee for each skiff.

Mississippi, in return, lowered its hunting license fee from $425 to $300 and the muzzle loader-archery license form $100 to $75.

Romero said the Louisiana fees will take effect 72 hours after Foster signs the bills, and sportsman should be able to purchase the new licenses by July 1.

Registration for summer youth program at Bay Little Theatre

Late registration will be accepted through Friday afternoon, June 22 for the "2001 Shakespeare Workshop" for youths age 12 to 17.

The summer program of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre features a jazz-age version of Twelfth Night. It meets Monday through Thursday at the Boardman Avenue Playhouse from 2 p.m. until 5 or 6 p.m. Production dates are July 27 and 28.

Registration for the younger group of "Shakespeare's Kids," age 7 to 11, is set for July 7 between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m., and will meet Monday through Thursday 9 a.m. until noon.

Workshop fees are $50 for the older group and $40 for the younger group plus the cost of a costume. A parent or legal guardian must accompany a child to registration to sign consent forms.

Pass Mayor McDonald given $4,800 pay raise

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

Two weeks after he was elected to a second consecutive term, the Board of Aldermen of Pass Christian has given Mayor Billy McDonald a $4,800-a-year raise.

The proposal recommending the raise was at the top of the agenda Tuesday night, but Ward 3 Alderman Michael Antoine questioned the timing. "What is the urgency," Antoine asked. He said the mayor and aldermen would soon be sitting down to hash out next year's fiscal budget, which goes into effect Oct. 1, and he wondered why the raise couldn't be considered at that time.

City Attorney Malcolm Jones spoke up for the mayor. He said he had contacted the state Attorney General's office and learned the mayor couldn't request a salary increase after he starts a second term. He said the raise could be approved between the time one term ends and another begins.

The raise was approved 4-1, with Antoine voting against. Aldermen Jeff Emerson, Margaret Jean Kalif, Leo "Chipper" McDermott and Don Moore voted for.

McDonald, who was elected in 1995 to fill out the unexpired term of Mayor Ted Lawyer, who resigned, has gotten one $5,000 raise since he took office. City employees, over the last six years, have been given four percent, cost-of-living raises each year.

The salary hike brings his annual pay to $48,100, compared to $59,000 paid Eddie Favre, who serves as mayor of Bay St. Louis.

It was a bittersweet meeting for two longtime aldermen, who are leaving city government. Ward 1 Alderman Jeff Emerson was defeated in the primary election by fellow Republican Howard McKissack. And, Ward 2 Alderwoman Margaret Jean Kalif, a Democrat, decided not to seek a fourth term and will be replaced by fellow Democrat Joseph Piernasse Jr. The mayor and new board of aldermen will be officially sworn in during ceremonies July 2 at city hall.

As Emerson and Kalif took their respective seats on the podium, a bouquet of roses sat in front of them.

McDermott presented each with a Plaque of Appreciation from the mayor and board of aldermen, thanking each for their 12 years of service to the city.

Kalif said, "It's been an honor to serve the city."

Emerson said he "wanted to thank the mayor for his help, city employees for their dedication to their jobs, department heads, city attorney Malcolm Jones, and city clerk Vikki Goff for her help over the last 12 years."

The mayor's raise wasn't the only hot topic on Tuesday night's agenda.

On recommendations of Kalif, the board of aldermen voted to replace three members of the eight-member Historic Preservation Society.

The members serve at the pleasure of the mayor and board of aldermen, who appoint them.

Although Kalif noted the job is often a thankless one, she said members appointed to the Society should reflect the will of the mayor and board of aldermen.

"Sometimes, it's unfair when we have a commission that does not reflect our desires," said Kalif. "I think these replacements are necessary."

Beverly Ann Danielson was named to replace Pat Mowry on the Society for a term to expire Dec. 31, 2002.

Louis J. Rizzardi was appointed to replace Nick Augustus for a term to expire Dec. 31, 2001.

P.C. Havens was named to replace Jean Bittenbender to a term that expires Dec. 31, 2002.

Kalif, Moore and Antoine voted to oust the three Commissioners. Emerson and McDermott voted against.

In a busy meeting, the board also voted to pass a long-delayed ordinance setting out Historic District guidelines and boundaries, a sign ordinance, and another ordinance championed by Kalif that places stiffer controls on commercial, industrial and residential developers building in Pass Christian.

The ordinance, modeled after one in effect in Madison, Miss., regulates stormwater runoff from development and provides requirements for retention and detention.

And the winner is ...

Pearlington substation not in Garber's plans

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

Three years after the state donated a weigh station on old Hwy. 90 outside Pearlinton to Hancock County, it remains vacant.

And, Ron Cuevas, chief administrative officer to Sheriff Steve Garber, said there are no plans to turn the facility into a substation to be used by patrolling officers.

Cuevas talked last week about the Sheriff's budget requests for the next fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1. The sheriff has requested $425,000 more next year to run the department and operate the jail, but Cuevas said none of the funding is earmarked for a substation.

"The sheriff feels it's more effective to have deputies out there patrolling than to staff a substation," said Cuevas.

It was May of 1998, when Sheriff Ronnie Peterson was still in office, when the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the Mississippi Department of Transportation signed a joint-agreement that turned over the cinderblock buildings to the county.

Ronnie Shows, MDOT Commissioner for the Southern District at that time, hailed the agreement as a model of joint cooperation between state and local governments.

Under the agreement, the county got free use of the building for 10 years, and MDOT maintained the right to store portable weigh scales and other equipment on site.

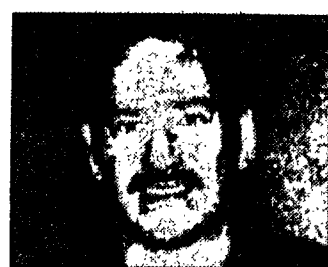

For years, Pearlinton residents have complained teen-aged gangs and others often cross the Louisiana state line and come over to Pearlinton to peddle drugs.

Cuevas said Garber has beefed up patrols in the area in an effort to resolve the drug problem. Garber ran on a pledge to cut crime and drug traffic in rural areas, and received the majority of votes in rural precincts.

Since taking office, he has opened a substation and dispatch center in the old Kiln Library. Peterson, with the help of a building donated by citizens, opened up a substation in Diamondhead before he left office.

'Drink & Drive. You Lose' campaign aimed at saving lives during Fourth of July

Law enforcement agencies across Mississippi are being encouraged to emphasize efforts in apprehending drunken drivers during the Fourth of July week in a "You Drink & Drive. You Lose" campaign developed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

In partnership with NHTSA in the campaign are the Office of Highway Safety, Mississippi, Division of Public Safety Planning; the International Association of Chiefs of Police; the National Sheriffs' Association; the National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives; CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort); Mothers Against Drunk Driving; and Nationwide Insurance.

"Year after year, more than a third of fatalities on Mississippi roadways are alcohol related," according to Billy Terrell, Office of Highway Safety director. "When law enforcement officers remove drunken drivers from our state's roadways, they potentially are saving lives of others on the roadways, as well as the impaired drivers."

Dr. Billy White Jr., Public Safety Planning's executive director, noted that "preventing the loss of lives and serious injuries in motor vehicle crashes certainly is the best reason for drivers never to consume alcoholic beverages before or during the operation of a motor vehicle."

"However, those who might consider mixing alcohol and driving should also be aware that drunken driving is a serious crime that could lead to the loss of the driver's license, time in jail and/or hefty fines. They also should be aware that a drunken driving conviction could result in a sharp increase in motor vehicle insurance premiums or even loss of coverage.

"Even a small amount of an alcoholic beverage can impair a driver to the point that he or she could cause a deadly crash," White said.

Terrell noted that "even the safest drivers can be involved in crashes caused by others. If a crash occurs, the best protection against death or serious injury is the use of safety belts or child protective devices such as safety seats."

Have all children ride in the back seat.

"Celebrating the Fourth of July is a great tradition," he said, "but don't overlook the fact that if you drink and drive, you lose."

Head Start registration going on now

Mississippi Action for Progress, Inc. (MAP), a non-private child care organization, announced its recruitment drive for the 2001-02 school year.

All children who will be 3 or 4 years of age on or before Sept. 1, 2002 are eligible and encouraged to apply at the Bay-Waveland Center, 301 Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

Parents will need to have a certified birth certificate, proof of family income (W-2 form), Health Department compliance letter and a Social Security card. Parents may come by Monday through Friday, 8 a.m.-3 p.m.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

I can for now say that I have really traveled the Mississippi Delta, as I attended the Mississippi Press Association's 135th Annual Convention in Tunica.

Yes, I did get to see lots of cotton and some soybeans growing in field after field, as far as the eye could see.

Tunica County has moved from the poorest to one of the most prosperous counties in Mississippi due to the casino industry.

The residents of the City of Tunica enjoy no taxes, no garbage fees, and pay something like $3 a month for water service and even get much more in services.

It is always good to get away from home and see how other folks live, and even with all the revenues from the casinos in Tunica County, I feel we have the best world on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

I now know why the newspaper folks from that area were a bit tired by the time they arrived at prior press meetings on the Coast.

It is a long ride to Tunica, and most of the 400 miles is nothing but field after field.

Anyway, it was very good to get together with many of the newspaper folks I have known for many years and meet some of the new faces, too.

It now has come to the point that I am one of those considered by some to be in the elderly category.

Our next June meeting will be in Biloxi, so the ride won't be as long.

Do not forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours Block Party from 5 to 7 this evening on the first block of the Service Road off Highway 90 from the Bay bridge.

The big Block Party is co-sponsored by John McDonald Realty, Ellen Kane Gifts, Bookends, Trendsetters and Charter Mortgage.

Some great food, refreshments and live entertainment is on tap for the event. The Business After Hours is open to chamber members and guests.

Remember, there will be door prizes, too.

Tonight at 6:30 - 8, there will be a Hancock County Gateway meeting at the Kiln Library, Highway 603.

This is a project the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has been working to pull together for some time, and the meeting tonight is sponsored by the Chamber and Board of Supervisors.

This meeting and one held last week in Pearlinton and a third to be held at the Bay St. Louis Library June 28 are to receive input from the community as to design of the Gateways to our county.

For the meeting tonight, as well as next Thursday, Carleen Moran, chamber executive director, says that everyone is invited to give input, even our younger generation. We need to know what our youngsters think, too.

The Gateway Project goes back to the Chamber's Vision 2000 Project, and a lot of the foot work has been done. Sue Chamberlain is very much involved in the Gateway Project.

It is hoped there will be some good input at tonight's and next Thursday night's meeting.

It was revealed at Pearlinton's meeting that at one time there was a gateway in that community for Hancock County. Come to think of it, I do vaguely recall a welcoming entrance on U.S. 90 when it was our link to the West.

It's all business as usual

The talkative governor doesn't talk to the Senate. The Senate doesn't talk to the governor. The governor had been talking to the House, but not anymore.

The state budget is in the dump. Nobody at the Capitol is talking to each other. The governor keeps going out into the boonies and telling the people things are bad. The lieutenant governor dismisses it as alarmist talk. Rob the rainy day fund a House member chimes in.

Not good. Not good at all.

You get the feeling you're watching the last cruise of the Titanic. Or a rerun of Keep Cool with Coolidge before the great crash of '29. One would think the state of Mississippi one of the smaller, poorer, more unsophisticated states in the land, shouldn't need a psychiatrist to get law-making running smoothly, the bills being paid...and leaders up at the Capitol talking to each other, finding consensus. But something is wacko up there.

Amazingly, you would think that a Legislature at war with a governor and his administration could only happen in a state where the two were from opposite political parties. Here you have a Democrat-controlled Legislature and a Democratic governor.

And they're constantly at odds: On how much money the state can safely spend in these unaccustomed (at least for the last 10 years) tight money times without going deep in the red or chopping state payrolls or needed programs; and which state employees should get the axe first.

Classic was the episode a week ago at the Capitol. Two legislative chairmen noted for putting pals on the state payroll hauled Human Services Director Janice Broome Brooks before them for castigation because she fired 20 upper-level employees, among them five "constituent services" agents that were the lawmakers' pipeline inside the sprawling agency.

Apart from the boorishness displayed by Sen. Bunky Huggins (R) Greenwood, and Rep. Bobby Moody (D) Louisville, toward Ms. Brooks, the two legislative dinosaurs demonstrated how dumb they are about public opinion: That taxpayers are delighted when a bureau head lops 20 well-paid workers off the payroll.

Especially when Ms. Brooks points out that she was told by these very same legislative chairmen during her confirmation hearing earlier this year that the agency was top-heavy.

Ms. Brooks was merely the most convenient target for the shots fired by Moody and Huggins. The ultimate target was actually Gov. Ronnie Musgrove, who lawmakers widely believe micro-managed the whole affair. Immediately, Musgrove says don't put the blood on my hands. But he backs up Brooks.

This DHS brou-ha-ha is just symptomatic of the on-going war between lawmakers and Musgrove.

However, what legislators are totally blind to is the fact that Musgrove is way ahead on points in the arena of public opinion. The people believe he is right in the Great Budget Debate, and as for the DHS firings, quirky as some of them may have been, they're on Ronnie's side.

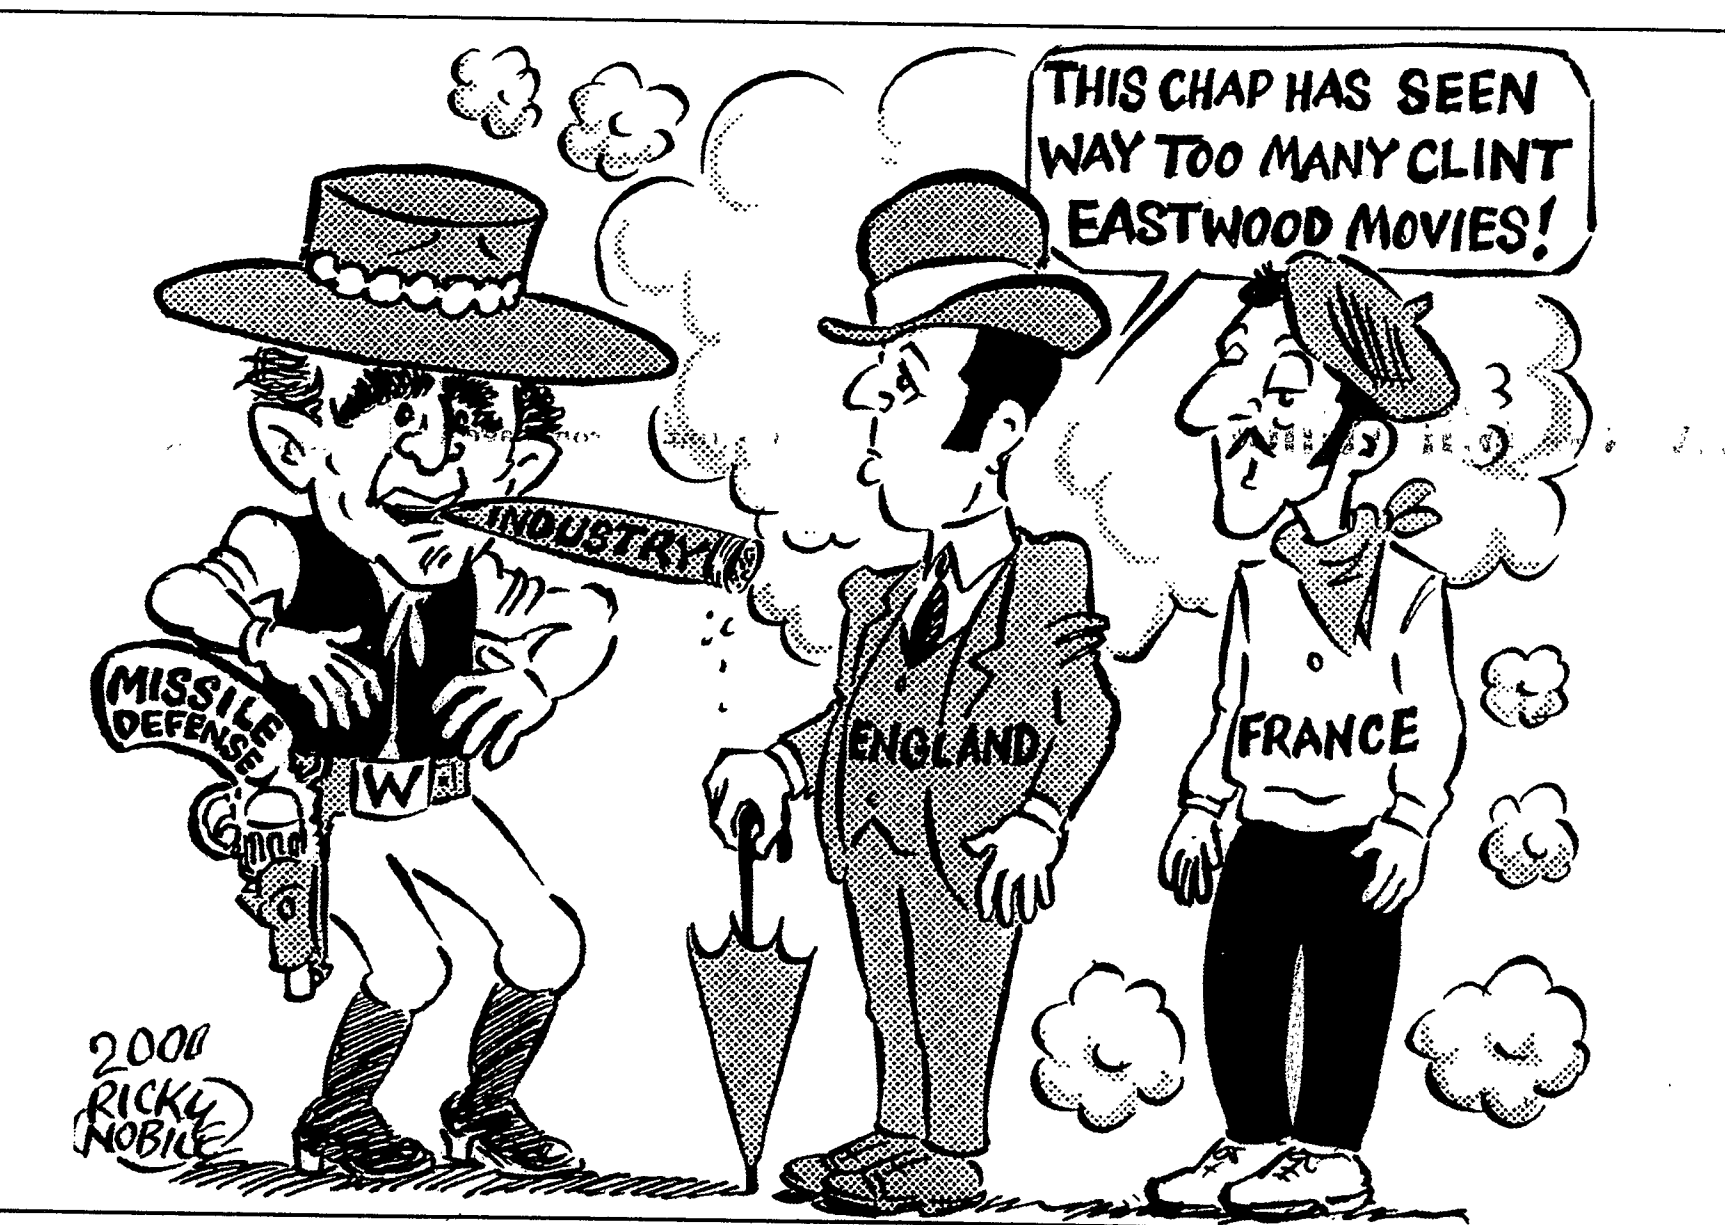

I say some of the firings were quirky. Take the case of Michael Raff, the third ranking person in DHS, who was over 1700 employees, supervising programs ranging from TANF (once called AFDC) to Medicaid.

Raff, an ex-priest and one-time head of the Mississippi

Reader grateful for Bay drainage project

To the Editor:
Thank you Eddie! After hearing the awful tales of flooding and water damage in my colleagues' and students' homes from the Pass to Gulfport, I realized how valuable Eddie Favre's completed and planned drainage projects are.

Those of us who had dry homes and cars after Allison's torrential downpours were saved thousands of dollars in repairs.

I think we all owe Eddie another vote of thanks and should encourage approval of his plans to expand the drainage projects in the Bay.

TECHNICALITIES

By State Auditor Phil Bryant MUNICIPALITIES

Q Has Section 21-17-1 been amended to allow municipalities to impose an additional charge upon a person who makes delinquent payments collected under a contract with a collection agency?

A Yes. House Bill 1129, 2001 Regular Session, effective April 12, 2001 allows the board/council to impose a delinquency fee of up to 25% for in state collections and 50% for out of state collections.

Q Has Section 21-17-1 been amended to allow municipalities to expend municipal funds to match certain state, federal or private funds?

A Yes. (House Bill 1129, 2001 Regular Session effective April 12, 2001)

Q Is a newly elected board/council's authority to revise the current year's budget limited?

A Yes. Section 21-35-25 only allows one revision to the current budget at a regular meeting not later than August; and only if there is a deficit in the budget.

Q Is the current board/council required to make a budget revision prior the July regular meeting?

A Only if a revenue shortfall will result in a deficit. ($21-35-25)

Q Should property records be reviewed at the end of the term of office to assure accountability for equipment tamed in by personnel and reassigned to new personnel?

A Yes. Section 11-C of the Municipal Audit and Accounting Guide prescribes accountability procedures.

Q Are the records of the municipality open to the public for inspection and copying?

A Yes, except as specifically exempted. ($25-61-5)

1961: Jail a 'drain' on county economy

TEN YEARS AGO

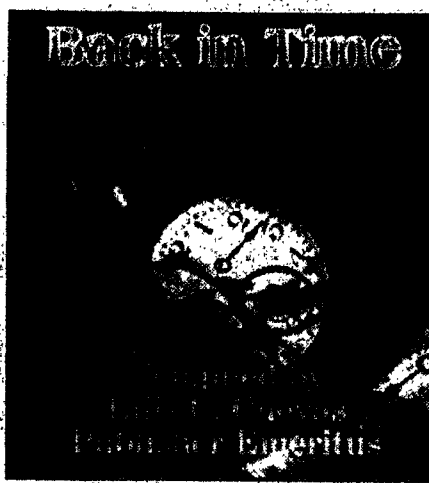

June 20, 1991 - Bay-Waveland School board members were not surprised to find an empty board room during their Tuesday night public hearing for 1991-92 budget. "They heard we were not raising taxes," board member Gary Yarborough commented in explanation for the lack of attendance.

Hancock County School Board President Frank Miller turned to a dozen empty seats Monday evening and asked for public input following review of the $11.5 million 1991-92 district budget. The new budget is a decrease from the current 1990-91 amended budget of $14.8 million and reflects no increase in ad valorem taxes for the new year.

Michael Ladner, varsity basketball coach at Bay High School will join the staff of Memphis State under head woman's coach Joye Lee-McNelis, former Hancock standout. Ladner, BHS head coach from 1986-91, was named District Eight varsity boys' basketball Coach of the year in 1988-89. His girls team placed second in district the same year.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

June 21, 1981 - Outgoing

Bay St. Louis Councilmen were honored and newly elected officials were recognized at a City Council meeting Tuesday night. The meeting was the last officially for two council members. Re-elected Mayor Larry Bennett presented outgoing Council President and Ward One Representative Peter Benvenuti and Ward Four Councilman Fred Wagner framed city "Certificates of Appreciation." Benvenuti and Wagner did not run for office in recent city elections. After the presentation, Benvenuti said he was 'almost speechless' and Wagner stated he was 'very touched.' The two councilmen's successors Gene Taylor of Ward One and Sheldon Seuzeneau of Ward Four were introduced. Other council members are Harry Farve, Ward Three, James Thriffley III, Ward Two and Wilmer Seymour, Councilman-at-Large.

FORTY YEARS AGO

June 22, 1961 - Candidates for Miss Bay St. Louis are Martha Allison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Allison; Katherine Alliston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Alliston; Bette Jean Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Martin; Caroline Maurigi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Maurigi; and Margaret Moreau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Moreau.

The cost of maintaining the heavy prisoner population at the Hancock County jail was labeled by the board of supervisors Monday as one of the principal drains on the county general fund, now bankrupt with four months remaining on the current fiscal year. Board President R.G. Manny Hubbard said he had tried to get other elected officials before the board to talk finances and been told the board could not call them. "I still think you can if you read the law," he asserted. "...We're at a stage we've to let friendships ride." He contended that in prisoner costs alone the county was spending $12,000 more a year than it had in the past which was eating at the general fund.

Merchant's Bank opens county's first drive-in. Waveland's first banking facility, a drive-in branch of Merchants Bank & Trust Co., will open next Thursday, June 29. Dr. M.J. Wolfe, president of the bank, will be on hand for the ceremonies with Mayor Garfield Ladner making the first deposit.

SIXTY YEARS AGO

June 13, 1941 - Local selectees to leave here Tuesday A.M. for Camp Shelby. Following named selectees from Hancock County are scheduled to leave from the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis on Tuesday of next week, June 17, at 7 o'clock, to be sent to the induction station of the United States Army at Camp Shelby, Miss. They are Stanford Joseph Schultz, Leo Jerome Bourgeois, Vellie Davis, Lewis Edward Evans, Avnel Lewis Dedeaux, Sam Charles Benigno, Daniel Necaise, William Russell Poolson, Corbett Denton Jones, Joseph Clay Baxter, and Frank Anthony Pernicari.

Start your summer adventure at the 'Launch Pad'

The Launch Pad, the point of origin for all tours of Stennis Space Center and StennisSphere, celebrated its first anniversary this month. Located at the Hancock County Welcome Center on Interstate 10, the Launch Pad is where fascinating day trips begin.

Tours start in the lobby of the Launch Pad with a sneak preview of StennisSphere's more than 50 exhibits and attractions. The day's adventure includes a 25-minute narrated bus tour of Stennis Space Center - America's largest rocket test complex - and its unique 125,000-acre buffer zone.

Designed to entertain while educating, StennisSphere includes informative displays and exhibits from NASA, the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command and other agencies located at NASA's lead center for rocket propulsion and Earth science applications. See how this hotbed for technology grew from the swamps of southwest Mississippi in the Swamp to Space exhibit. Swell with pride at the accomplishments of Mississippi and Louisiana astronauts, and see artifacts of their lives and careers.

From the Age of Apollo to Millennium Hall where today's Space Shuttle Main Engines are explained and simulations can be tested, find out how NASA technology has made and is making our lives better today.

Admission to StennisSphere is free. The visitor center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except New Year's Day, Easter, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Tours depart on a regular schedule each day from the Launch Pad tour stop at the Hancock County Welcome Center on I-10 at Exit 2. For more information or to make reservations for groups, call StennisSphere at (228) 688-2370 or 1-800-237-1821 (Option 1) in Mississippi and Louisiana, or access the StennisSphere home page on the World Wide Web at www.ssc.nasa.gov/public/visitors.

Council on Human Relations, was considered a Musgrove fair-haired boy when he was surprisingly given the high DHS job shortly after Musgrove took office.

Then, another lopped off was Fenton Dewese, who had been the No. 2 person in DHS. Dewese gave up his law practice in Philadelphia to take the job. He had been noted as a rare liberal voice, a colorful, bearded lawyer who spoke out for reopening the infamous 1964 slaying case of three civil rights workers in Neshoba County.

If this were the Republican administration of Kirk Fordice, one might say that two liberals like Raff and Dewese getting the heave-ho was part of some right-wing plot. But Musgrove? Go figure.

All that is really known about the 20 DHS firings is it was a wipe-out of everyone hired by Brooks' predecessor, Betty Ward Fletcher. As will be remembered, Fletcher bit the dust less than a year after being hand-picked by Musgrove to head the huge department.

That one also brought teeth-grashing in liberal circles, especially when it became known Fletcher had displeased Huggins, the Senate Health and Welfare Committee chair, in some of her firings.

It's becoming increasingly obvious that Musgrove and Lt. Gov. Amy Tuck are reading off a different page as far as the state budget dilemma is concerned. Moreso, it is also obvious there is absolutely no communication between them on virtually any subject regarding legislative business.

As will be remembered, during the state flag battle earlier in the year, Tuck was the only elected Democratic state official who declined to join Musgrove in a joint news conference endorsing the new flag.

Afterwards, Tuck issued some mealy-mouthed statement about not telling the people how to vote. Of course, she also is the architect of the "5 per cent" rule put into the school teachers' pay bill last year that virtually blocks raises sought by Musgrove to bring teacher pay to the Southeastern average by 2005.

Rumblings are already being heard that Tuck could be positioning herself to take on Musgrove in the 2003 Democratic primary for governor. Such a move, political observers agree, would be politically fatal for Tuck, but would greatly increase the chances of a Republican winning in November, 2003.

A lot of Mississippians may think the above scenario - an overactive governor with his own agenda for running state government, a recalcitrant Legislature that hates being told how it should be done, a personality split between the state's top two elected officials, and a bare state treasury--is all business as usual.

Take it from me, an old hand around these parts. It ain't.

Hancock Medical Center offers bone density test to detect osteoporosis cases

Osteoporosis is a silent, progressive disease characterized by decreased bone density and increased bone fragility, which makes the bones more likely to fracture. One out of every two women over the age of 50 is affected by osteoporosis.

Yet, many of these cases are undiagnosed. In fact, many people are not likely to find out that they have this disease until they suffer a painful bone fracture.

Hancock Medical Center is now offering a quick and painless test that can help detect bone loss associated with osteoporosis early, before it causes fractures.

Bone Mineral Density Screening is noninvasive and safe, and it is considered the most accurate and advanced technique in use today.

A bone mineral density test can detect bone loss associated with osteoporosis in its earliest stage and help confirm a diagnosis of disease-related bone loss. This test can also monitor changes in bone density associated with therapy.

Some risk factors for osteoporosis include: small/thin frame, female, smoker, early menopause, family history of osteoporosis, excessive caffeine and/or alcohol intake, avoidance of dairy foods, low vitamin D intake, rheumatoid arthritis and a sedentary lifestyle.

The bone mineral density test is completely painless and provides your risk score in less than five minutes.

The National Osteoporosis Foundation recommends that women have a bone density test if they are: over 65 years of age; postmenopausal, with at least one risk factor besides menopause or with a fracture; considering osteoporosis therapy; or on prolonged hormone replacement therapy.

If you are interested in having a Bone Mineral Density Test, please contact your physician or Hancock Medical Center at 467-8722.

Director of Mississippi Downtown Development Association presented Doug and Vicki Niolett with the honored "Spirit of Main Street" award at the Associations Annual Awards Luncheon.

Nioletts honored for their community 'Spirit'

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Doug and Vicki Niolett, of Bay St. Louis, were awarded "The Spirit of Main Street" Award for 2001 at the Annual Meeting and Awards Luncheon in Jackson held earlier this month.

The award is quite an honor, encompassing all the categories for awards in the Main Street Program, outstanding projects involving promotion, design, organization and economic restructuring.

Of course, to the citizens of Bay St. Louis, the Niolett's commitment and investment to the improvement of their Old Town neighborhood is nothing new. The Niolett's have worked diligently and consistently toward their goal of revitalizing the Old Town area as a vital commercial and cultural center, since moving to the Bay in 1994.

Anyone who has driven down Main Street can't miss the mural covered 1929 Art-Deco building that once served as a neighborhood grocery, and is now home to Paper Moon, the Niolett's shop/gallery. The decor invites you to come inside, or just sit for a spell on the bench out front.

Now the Niolett's have taken on a second project, the renovation of an old hardware storage building, located on Second St. by the railroad tracks. The Lumbryard Art Center will house artists studios, workshops, classrooms, a community gallery, and lecture hall. The Nioletts already have commitments from tenants, who will include visual, performing and literary artists. They hope to open Phase 1 of the project this summer.

Budget -- supers county revenues.

Ladner said this week, "We're cautiously optimistic new growth will make up for what we might lose due to the increased tax exemption." He said the tax rolls won't be complete until the beginning of next month, so the extent of the impact has not yet been determined.

Inside sources say the medical center may ask for a larger chunk of money than was appropriated last year. Supervisors, in a surprise move, last year allocated $50,000 to the hospital, which did not request any funding. However, they stipulated the funds must be used for general repairs or expansion to the current facility, and not for any construction around the hospital, where doctors' offices and other medical facilities are locating.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is asking for $425,000 more next year to provide cost-of-living salaries increases for employees, hire two additional deputies and to begin replacing an aging fleet of patrol cars.

Ron Cuevas, chief administrative officer to Sheriff Steve Garber, said the department operated crime prevention patrols and crime investigation last year and ran the jail for a total $3.9 million.

Cuevas said the sheriff is not requesting an increase to run daily jail operations, but did request an additional $60,000 for overtime and a cost-of-living raise for jail employees.

Cuevas said the hiring of two new deputies would cost around $75,000-a-year, but one of those deputies would be assigned to the Narcotics Task Force. The county, Bay St. Louis and Waveland each assign three officers to the force, he explained.

A total $100,000 is being requested for capital outlay, and Cuevas said the sheriff plans to use the majority of the funds to begin replacing the aging patrol fleet.

In a report last month, Cuevas told supervisors several of the vehicles in the fleet of 44 now in use have in excess of 100,000 miles and some in excess of 250,000 miles, and the sheriff would like to begin a systematic method of replacing the fleet by purchasing at least seven new vehicles a year.

Months ago, supervisors allowed the sheriff's department to purchase a bullet-proof and air-conditioned used guard house for $1,495, and it is sitting vacant at the north entrance of the jail house.

Cuevas said plans call for it to become a manned guard station, 24 hours a day, in order to beef up security at the jail, but the cost of manning that facility was not included in budget requests.

Cuevas said the sheriff still plans to construct a firing range at the old Standard landfill site off Hwy. 603 if given approval by the Hancock County School District, but he said it could be built using mostly county equipment and labor.

Lora Mederos, the county's Human Resources Director, who oversees child development programs and senior citizens activities, asked for a $17,000 increase to her senior citizens budget.

She said $5,000 would be funneled to Coast Transit Authority, which provides transportation for the elderly and handicapped.

Maderos said the $5,000 would help offset CTA's mounting gasoline costs.

Maderos said she was not asking for an increase in funding for Child Development programs even though she has not learned how recent census figures might affect federal or state funding.

During her report to supervisors, Mederos said the staff is providing 20 seniors a daily lunch at the Senior Center and volunteer are delivering 90 (frozen) meals to seniors at home. She said there is a waiting list of 30 who need meals delivered to their homes, but she doesn't have the money to do it.

Hancock County Justice Facility after deputies opted not to pick him up the day before at his Kiln residence so that he could seek medical attention for high blood pressure and severe dehydration.

He was arrested again on May 18 after the same woman made further charges that he had both "stalked and harassed" her after the first arrest.

Hamby quickly made bail both times, and resigned his job as deputy shortly after the first incident. Late last month, however, Judge Tommy Carver revoked Hamby's bond, ordering him held until the Tuesday trial.

The voters of Hancock County selected Hamby as constable for the east district in 1999. Recently, he had also told friends he intended to seek the justice court seat formerly held by Judge Joe Dobson.

Chevis re-scheduled Hamby's trial for July 17. In order to remain free on bond, the constable - or anyone acting on his behalf - must not have any sort of contact with the former girlfriend or her family.

The determination as to whether Hamby will be able to remain as constable will still be up to state Attorney General Mike Moore, Garber said, but if Hamby is convicted on the misdemeanor domestic violence charges, he will be unable to legally own or carry a firearm in the state of Mississippi.

condition. It came from Rosemarie Rudolph of Kassel, Germany, but it was not clear from the message where the bottle had been dropped. Nor was there a date.

The short note gave an address and asked the finder to write. Scott has prepared a letter but has not mailed her reply yet, though she plans to do so.

"I do exchange vacations with a lot of people around the world," said Scott. "They can stay in my Creole cottage in the By-Water and then when I visit their area, I stay with them. Hopefully, this will turn into a trip to Germany."

A local antique collector, Thomas Rice, said that the bottle was an old medicine bottle and that he was puzzled as to why the senders chose it to send their message, since it was definitely an antique. He said that from the condition of the metal on the clasp, he would guess that the bottle had been in the water for six months or more.

While she was in town to talk about the bottle, Scott met a visitor from Delaware, a woman who wished to remain anonymous, who said that she had found a bottle on a beach there in 1965 while on a school trip. She was 17. A man had thrown the bottle in the water five months before, and the two corresponded for more than 30 years, including the Vietnam War years. The two met, but no romance ensued and they both married others. The man later became a prominent figure in Washington D.C.

Amazing stories of messages in bottles around the world over and have been passed down mainly through word of mouth. The floating messengers have performed services, sparked romance, mapped ocean currents, carried predictions of doom, and sparked hope.

In 16th century England, opening a bottle washed ashore was punishable by hanging for unauthorized persons. In 1560, Queen Elizabeth I appointed an official Uncorker of Bottles after finding a vital political secret revealed in a bottle washed ashore.

A Sicilian fisherman, Sebastiano Puzzo, found a message in a bottle in 1957 and took the note, which was written in English, home to his 18-year-old daughter, Paolina, to translate. It was dated December 1955 and invited girls who were interested in marrying a handsome Swedish sailor, to write. Paolina wrote Ake Viking, they met, and were married one year later in Sicily.

In 1979, John and Dottie Peckham dropped a message in a wine bottle promising a reward from their cruise ship traveling from Acapulco to Hawaii. In 1983, the bottle was fished out of the water 10 miles off the coast of Thailand by Nguyen Van Ho - more than 9,000 miles away. He was drifting without food or water with 30 other Vietnamese refugees in a five-man fishing boat. The boat reached a United Nations refugee camp in Thailand, and he wrote a letter to the Peckhams. A correspondence ensued, and two years later on April 26, 1985, Ho arrived in Los Angeles with his wife, baby and brother, as a result of help by the Peckhams. He had claimed his reward - freedom - his life forever changed by the message in the bottle.

A message launched by a passenger on the steamship Arawatta in 1910 off the coast of Australia, was found almost 73 years later on an island just west of Queensland, Australia. In 1996, a fisherman found a bottle launched 92 years earlier from the North Sea. In 1935, almost 150 years after it had been launched from a wrecked Japanese ship in 1784 by seaman Chunosuke Matsuyama, a bottle washed ashore in the seaside village where Matsuyama had been born. He had starved, along with 44 other shipmates, trapped on a coral reef in the Pacific. It is believed that the longest journey taken by a bottle was 16,000 miles in six-and-a-half years by a bottle launched from the southern tip of South America.

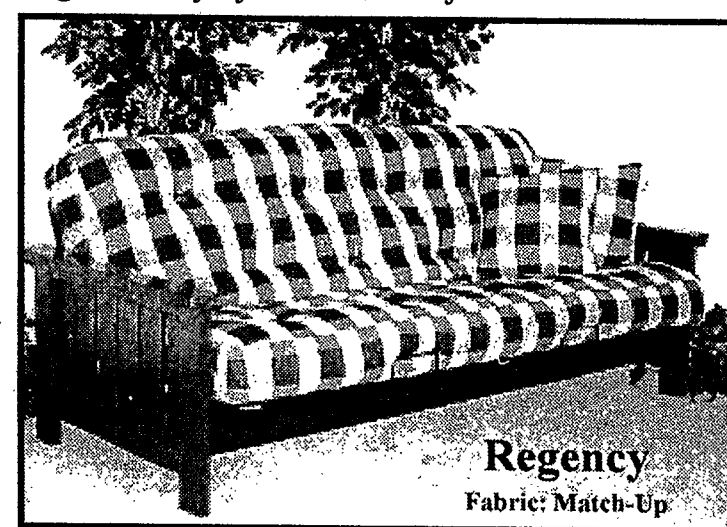

George Phillips became known as the "Whiskey Bottle Evangelist" because of his practice of sending out messages of the gospel written in several languages in upwards of 50,000 bottles from various locations throughout the world. He received thousands of replies. Chinese dissidents launched thousands of bottles in 1980, appealing for the release of Chinese dissident Wei Jingheng, among other appeals. One of these was found 10 years later off the coast of Vancouver Island by a university professor who was on a kayaking trip.

Bottles make sturdy vessels and may survive even hurricane conditions to arrive at their destinations. At present, there are no historical accounts of messages found on our Gulf Coast.

Grant money now available to promote boating safety

The BoatU.S. Foundation for Boating Safety and Clean Water is offering grants of up to $5,000 for local boating safety projects.

The Foundation has awarded more than $500,000 to 800 non-profit organizations across the U.S. in the last 12 years. Safety education campaigns funded last year included boating safety events and posters, signs, brochures, billboards and cinema advertising to promote safe boating.

The grant application, including guidelines and instructions, can be downloaded from www.boat-us.com/foundation or is available by calling Vanessa Pert at 410-897-0949.

All application packets must be postmarked and all on-line applications must be submitted to the Foundation by Friday, November 2.

"Every boating area in the U.S. has unique characteristics and safety issues," said Vanessa Pert, grant administrator for the BoatU.S. Foundation.

"This program rewards local groups that have the initiative and creativity to educate their community about responsible boating."

The grants will be awarded in January 2002. Funding for the awards comes from the donations by the 530,000 members of BoatU.S., the world's largest organization of recreational boaters.

the woman's car abandoned in Columbia, Hurt said.

Kent was brought back to Bay St. Louis yesterday, where he was questioned by officers from both the sheriff's department and the Bay St. Louis Police Department. The crimes he is accused of allegedly took place in both departments' jurisdictions, Hurt said - the carjacking and kidnapping in Bay St. Louis, and the robbery and sexual battery, further out in the county.

He is being held at the Hancock County Justice Facility on a $100,000 bond for the sexual battery charges, and a $50,000 bond for the alleged armed robbery.

No trial has yet been scheduled in the matter. The incident is still under investigation by both the Bay P.D. and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

AD VALOREM ADVERTISEMENT

The Hancock County School District will hold a public hearing on its proposed school district budget for fiscal year 2001-2002 on June 26, 2001 at 5:30 p.m. at the office of the Superintendent. At this meeting a proposed ad valorem tax effort increase shall be considered.

The Hancock County School District is now operating with a projected total budget revenue of $26,024,654. 34 % or $8,880,000 of such revenue is obtained through ad valorem taxes. For the next fiscal year, the proposed budget has total projected revenue of $27,201,682. Of that amount, 33% or $9,020,600, is proposed to be financed through a total ad valorem tax levy.

For the next fiscal year, the Hancock County School District plans to increase Ad valorem tax efforts by less than one mill (Current mills - 50.38).

This increase in ad valorem tax revenue means that you will pay more in Hancock County School District Ad valorem taxes on your home, automobile tag, utilities, business fixtures and equipment and rental real property.

Any citizen of the Hancock County School District is invited to attend this public hearing on the proposed ad valorem tax increase, and will be allowed to speak for a reasonable amount of time and offer tangible evidence before any vote is taken.

Whitney Bank names new state president

Whitney National Bank has named John M. Walton as the state president in Mississippi. As senior management officer, Walton will be responsible for commercial and retail bank operations in Mississippi, including lending and operations.

Walton has 21 years of previous banking experience, serving in various capacities, including city president with Compass Bank in both the Tuscaloosa and Montgomery, Ala. markets.

Walton is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin where he received his BBA in accounting, and is a graduate of the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University.

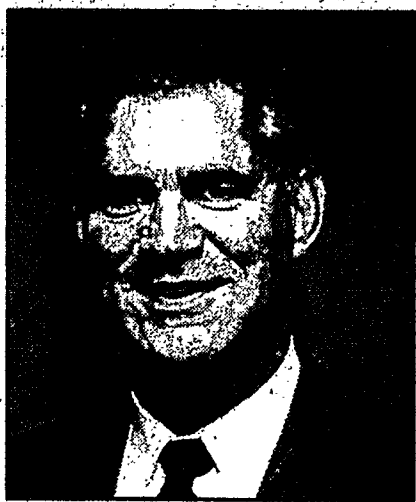

"We feel fortunate to have found an individual with Walton's management background and banking expertise," says John Hope, Whitney Bank

Gulf Coast division executive, "and feel very confident the Mississippi franchise will continue to grow and prosper in the future under his leadership."

Walton has been actively involved in various charities and civic organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce and the United Way.

Whitney Holding Corporation, whose stock is traded on the NASDAQ exchange (WTNY), is the holding company for Whitney National Bank and Bank of Houston.

The Whitney operates more than 116 banking locations in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Texas. The Whitney, which has been in continuous operation since 1883, currently has assets of approximately $6 billion.

PSC seeks to control fuel costs

A order allowing Mississippi Power Company to purchase future fuel requirements at a predetermined price was announced this week by Public Service Commission (PSC) Vice Chairman Michael Callahan, Commissioner of the Southern, District.

The PSC has approved an energy cost management clause (EMC) that will allow Mississippi Power to provide a more stable, method of dealing with future fuel costs.

The EMC will allow for more accurate projections for fuel costs and a better-coordinated way to recover the cost of fuel. Customers should benefit from prices that are more stable and predictable and possibly lower.

The filing of the ECM resulted from the PSC, in November of 2000, ordering Mississippi Power to find a better method of dealing with the uncertainty of future fuel prices.

In announcing the order, the PSC found hedging to be a reasonable and prudent method to stabilize fixture fuel energy prices.

Alabama woman challenges Mississippi's jackpot tax

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A lawsuit filed in Hinds County is challenging the state of Mississippi's authority to collect income taxes on casino jackpots of $1,200 or more.

The lawsuit was filed by Josephine Moon of Birmingham, Ala. Brad Pigott, the woman's attorney and a former federal prosecutor, said Monday the lawsuit attacks the Mississippi Tax Commission's authority to take 5 percent of jackpots won at casinos.

Pigott said the lawsuit specifically deals with jackpots Moon won at the Silver Star Hotel and Casino in Neshoba County, which is owned by the Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians.

While the casino is not subject to state taxes, the tribe agreed to collect Mississippi income taxes on jackpots.

Pigott said Moon had won at the casino several times, but "not a substantial amount." Moon would not comment, referring all questions to Pigott.

In the lawsuit, which gives only one side of the legal argument, Moon demands that the Tax Commission refund all the money it has collected from casino winners since gambling was legalized in Mississippi in 1990.

Bobby Long, a spokesman for the Tax Commission, could not say how much the state has collected.

Mississippi requires a 5 percent income tax withholding on winnings of more than $1,200. Pigott claims the Tax Commission has no legal authority to assess casino winners.

The 2001 Legislature passed a 3 percent tax on casino winnings that won't take effect until Jan. 1, 2002.

"They just did it," Pigott said of the assessment. "This whole litigation is in the nature of a constitutional lawsuit and the separation of powers and the limitations of the legislative and executive branches of government."

Long said the state has always collected a tax on casino winnings. The authority is granted by state income tax regulations, he said.

Pigott said in his lawsuit that the 1968 state income tax law covers only wages earned by employees and proceeds from certain kinds of property sales and says nothing about the proceeds of gambling.

Before the new 3 percent tax was signed into law by the governor earlier this year, state tax officials said that most of the 100,000 nonstate residents who file taxes on casino winnings each year claim losses, overall, to get out of paying the 5 percent tax and usually get a 2 percent rebate.

The new law requires casinos to withhold 3 percent of casino patrons' winnings up front, and gamblers would neither report winnings nor deduct losses on state tax returns.

Governor asks Bush for disaster funds

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ronnie Musgrove asked President Bush Tuesday for federal assistance for areas hit by tornadoes and flooding as the remnants of Tropical Storm Allison moved across the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

In a letter to the president, Musgrove asked for a federal disaster declaration for George, Pearl River, Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties. If approved, the declaration would make homeowners eligible for low-interest loans or grants.

Officials with the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency, who surveyed the damage last week, estimate damages would exceed $6 million.

Remnants from the storm crossed into Mississippi June 13, spawning wide-spread flooding and at least three confirmed tornadoes.

Ribbon cutting in Pass Christian

The Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce will host a ribbon cutting ceremony on Monday, June 25, beginning at 3 p.m. at Evangeline Art & Antiques.

The chamber will also host its next Harbor Nights celebration from 5-7 p.m. on Aug. 23 at Vola, 113 East Scenic Drive.

Pittman wins Hector Memorial Art Scholarship

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

Kendra Pittman, Gulfport native and a student at William Carey College on the Coast was recently awarded the $4,000 Dot Hector Memorial Art Scholarship by the Collage Arts Festival.

Pittman, a graduate of Gulfport High School, is majoring in Graphic Design with a minor in painting. She plans to use the scholarship to continue her art education at William Carey.

Nationally acclaimed Waveland artist Joseph Pearson served as judge for the competition.

In selecting Pittman for the scholarship, Pearson said Pittman's work "demonstrated a varied use of line, value and shapes, (three of the five elements of drawing) and a general grasp of proportions. The emotional content of the work reveals about the artist a love of the subject and a passion for the work."

Awarded second place in the scholarship competition for her scenic design for a production of David Ives' "All in the Timing" was Carrie Ferguson-Bellew.

She is a student at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College on the Jefferson Davis Campus. Wayne Catlett, chair of the Fine Arts Department said of Ferguson-Bellew: "Besides being one of the most promising young designers I have ever encountered, she is a phenomenal scenic painter. . . ." She has received awards for her scenic design as well as her acting. She hopes to obtain her BFA in theatre with a minor in art and receive a master in theatre.

In third place was Penny Shirey, an art student at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, Jefferson Davis Campus. The judge felt that Shirey's work "has good design, a strong color sense and organization." She graduated from D'Iberville High School with high honors in Art I, II and III and in 1984 was awarded an art scholarship to the Atlanta Art Institute.

The competition judge, Joseph Pearson, has received awards and honors from throughout the country. His works have been selected for exhibitions in major museums in Lexington, Ky.; New York City; Meridian and Jackson; Cohasset, Maine; Atlanta, Ga.; Dallas, Texas and Lafayette.

Dot Hector was a well known Mississippi artist and one of the founding members of the Collage Arts Festival in Pass Christian.

When she died at the age of 93, friends started the scholarship fund in her memory to enable deserving and talented students seeking a career in the visual arts to further their art education.

For the past five years collage artists have donated works of art for a silent auction, proceeds of which have gone into the scholarship fund. Other monies have come from private donations and a Collage Preview Party held before the festival.

USMGC to offer class for science teachers

A one-week class on the Mississippi Gulf Coast marine environment for teachers in grades 6-12 will be offered later this month at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The intensive course, which is worth three credit-hours, is set for June 25-29 at USMGC. Dr. Lawrence Bellipanni, an assistant professor of biological sciences and science education at Southern Miss, will conduct the workshop.

The class, which is a Project Learning Tree program, is sponsored by the National Forestry Service. Participants will be expected to produce a portfolio on a project they choose for use in their classroom.

The highlight of the class will be a free science workshop June 29, sponsored by Holt, Rinehart and Winston Inc. textbook company. The workshop will feature Dr. Bob Craven, national science consultant for Holt, Rinehart and Winston Inc. The company will provide accommodations at the Gulf Park Conference Center Thursday night, along with breakfast and lunch Friday.

Teachers will be provided materials in their respective subject areas free of charge. Spaces for the workshop are limited, so teachers are encouraged to register early.

Rayborn & Fire Dogs storm back to bite J-dogs 55-38

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

Offensive coordinator/quarterback Stu Rayborn left everything he had on the field for the Mississippi Fire Dogs on Saturday against the Johnstown J-dogs. Rayborn and the Fire Dogs stormed back after a dismal first period that left Mississippi down 10-0.

Starting quarterback Derrick Taite threw two first quarter interceptions and was replaced by Rayborn in the second quarter. The former Kent State University quarterback provided the spark that the Mississippi offense was lacking early on. By halftime, Rayborn had turned the Fire Dogs around from a 10-0 deficit to a 28-17 lead. Mississippi scored 21 unanswered in the second period while the Fire Dog defense did their usual aggressive job of holding the opponent out of the endzone.

With 5:45 left to play in the game, Rayborn scored from one yard out to cap the scoring for the evening. However, after the play was ended Rayborn laid motionless on the turf. It appeared tragedy had struck the Fire Dogs. But, with a fist held high in the air Rayborn signaled to the crowd and his teammates that he was fine as he was rolled out on a stretcher and taken to a nearby hospital for observation. It was determined later that Rayborn suffered a stinger on the play and is fine.

The Fire Dogs held on for the 55-38 win over the NFL's #1 team from the Northern Division. The win gives the Fire Dogs a 9-1 overall record and the J-dogs fall to 8-3 on the season.

Lemont Coleman started the scoring for the J-dogs with a one-yard dive at the 9:38 mark of the first quarter. Tyson Cook converted on the PAT to make the score 7-0. Coleman's score was set up by a blocked field goal attempt by J-dogs line-backer Dan Caro.

Taite was intercepted by Caro on a Mississippi possession later in the quarter. The INT set up a 20-yard field goal by Cook with 16 left in the first quarter to make the score 10-0.

Rayborn replaced Taite in the second quarter and led the Fire Dogs to a score on his first series under center. With 10:08 left to play in the first half, Rayborn connected with Lamont Woodberry for a 34-yard touchdown. Tim Hardaway connected on the PAT and the score was 10-7.

The J-dogs didn't waste any time on the next possession and put some more distance between them and Mississippi. Quentin Robinson scored on a nine-yard pass from Justin Myers with 7:54 left in the first half. Cook's PAT was good and the score was 17-7. But, that was the last time the J-dogs would see the endzone in the first half.

Rayborn hit Marcus Haynes for a 21-yard gain down to the J-dogs' four yardline. Tyrone Ashley pounded the ball across the goal line on the next play for Mississippi. Hardaway nailed the PAT and made the score 17-14 with 6:24 left in the half.

Fire Dogs defensive end Stacy Wilson picked off a Myers pass Johnstown's ensuing possession at the J-dogs eight yardline. Rayborn connected with Woodberry two plays later for a seven-yard scoring pass. Hardaway nailed the PAT giving the Fire Dogs a 21-17 lead with 3:32 left to play in the half. It was a lead Mississippi would not relinquish.

Fire Dog defenders Tim Bell and Monte Gatlin kept the J-dogs at bay on the next possession with two quarterback sacks. A high snap on the field goal attempt was recovered by James Bell at the J-dogs one yardline.

Rayborn plunged across on the first play of the possession for the Fire Dogs with 14 left in the half. Hardaway connected on the PAT to make the score 28-17 at halftime.

Allan Jackson opened the second half for the J-dogs with a 12-yard interception return for a touchdown with 11:07 left in the third quarter. The two-point conversion missed leaving the score 28-23.

The next Fire Dog possession was kept alive by two J-dog penalties that brought the line of scrimmage down to the Johnstown five yardline. Ashley scored from five yards out to give Mississippi a 34-23 lead with 6:46 left in the third quarter. Hardaway missed the PAT.

Coleman brought the J-dogs to within three points with a five-yard scoring romp with 2:43 left in the third quarter. The two-point conversion by Johnstown was good making the score 34-31.

The Fire Dogs answered with two quick scores to put some distance between the two teams.

Ashley scored his third touchdown of the night with 13:16 left in the final quarter.

from five yards out. Hardaway nailed the PAT and the score was 41-31.

Lamont Woodberry caught his third touchdown pass of the game from Rayborn on Mississippi's next possession. Woodberry's score covered 39 yards. Hardaway made good on the PAT and with 9:29 left to play the score was 48-31.

Johnstown refused to give up and scored on their next possession. With 7:38 left to play, Justin Bivins scored on a 21-yard pass from Myers. Cook connected on the PAT and made the score 48-38.

Rayborn scored the final touchdown of the evening from one-yard out with 5:45 left to play. It was the play that made the Fire Dogs and all in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum hold their breath. After Rayborn was taken off the field, Hardaway connected on the PAT and made the final score 55-38.

Terrell Sutton ended all hopes of a Johnstown comeback with an interception at the Mississippi three yardline with about four minutes left in the game.

Defensive coordinator Brad Hignight stated, "We knew that Johnstown was a big rushing team with two different style backs. We wanted them to have to drive the full length of the field. We didn't force them into that early on which made the field position a problem. We came together and played a hard-nosed defensive game and held them under their season average. The defensive front and Monte Gatlin played a strong ball game. All of our defenders supported each other out there tonight."

The Fire Dogs travel to Tupelo to take on the Fire Ants this weekend in a South Division match-up. Now, the Fire Dogs are battling for home field advantage throughout the playoffs during the team's final four regular season games.

Fire Dogs head coach Irvin Favre commented, "Tonight, I thought Stu Rayborn gave us the lift that we needed on the offensive side of the ball. Our defense was very aggressive again this game. We knew that Johnstown had big-play backs but Stu Rayborn was the difference tonight. We have to get ready for some big-play athletes with Tupelo. They have two big wide receivers that are going to test our secondary. We have to be ready to play up there. Our destiny is in our hands now and we know that."

Babe Ruth baseball hosts two district tournaments

City Recreation Director Gus McKay announces that beginning June 25 the Bay will see license plates from cars from throughout south Mississippi in Bay St. Louis for the 9/10 and 13-year-olds Babe Ruth District tournaments.

The tournaments will be June 25-30 at the Bay St. Louis Athletic Complex, Athletic Drive.

"Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth had another extraordinary year with 565 children registered to play baseball. Now we finish our year hosting two tournaments. Everyone wins with this type of success," said Mayor Eddie Favre.

The seven-field complex has hosted district or state tournaments every year since its opening for the 1996 season. The complex was a major part of the city's capital improvements campaign and the first project completed.

"The complex, combined with the hospitality of our city, have made playing in the Bay a great mini-vacation for visiting families," said the mayor.

The Difference...

You'll love the breathtaking French décor, inspired by the French Explorer Jean-Baptiste Le Moyne de Bienville, who named the Bay of St. Louis. The new buffet features a wide variety of live cooking stations where delicious entrees are created right before your eyes.

The Flavor...

We've enhanced the flavor of some of your favorites and added some of the tastiest dishes from around the world. You'll enjoy the irresistible taste of delicious seafood, a variety of grilled and hand-carved meats, homemade bread and pizza hot out of the brick oven, a deluxe salad bar and fresh-baked desserts.
